

Why Are We Changing the School Calendar?

Tereso S. Tullao, Jr. PhD University Fellow De La Salle University

ABSTRACT: The initial motivation of changing the academic calendar for select universities in the Philippines is to align with the school calendar of higher educational institutions (HEIs) in the ASEAN. Harmonizing school calendar is considered one concrete step towards the promotion of cross border education within the region. It is also being proposed as a building block towards the establishment of the ASEAN Economic Community (AEC), where freer movement of people is envisaged. But more than changing the academic calendar, there are more important things to consider in realizing greater mobility of students and professors in the region. Since cross border education can be pursued via various modes, readiness of our higher education institutions (HEIs) to participate actively is under question. Given these limitations, HEIs in the country can still benefit from cross border education in the ASEAN because these divides can provide pressures to improve, serve as avenues for cooperation and can be instruments in building a regional community.

About the Fellow:

Professor TERESO S. TULLAO, JR. is a University Fellow, Professor of Economics, and the Director of the Angelo King Institute for Economic and Business Studies. He was former Dean of the College of Business and Economics (CBE) at De La Salle University (DLSU). He was educated at DLSU (AB, 1973), Stanford University (AM, 1974), and at The Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University (MALD, 1980, Ph.D., 1982).

He has been teaching for almost four decades at DLSU. He was visiting professor and scholar at various institutions in Japan, USA, China, Thailand, France, and Laos. In 1993, he was awarded as one of the Outstanding Teachers of the Philippines by the Metrobank Foundation. He is currently writes weekly column in PinoyPeriodiko.

He has published several articles, monographs and books in Filipino and English in the fields of economics of education, trade in services, movement of natural persons, migration and remittances. Some of his recent works include: "Movement of Natural Persons Between the Philippines and Japan: Issues and Prospects". (2013) Philippine Institute for Development Studies (PIDS); "Bilateral Labor Agreements and Trade in Services: The Experience of the Philippines". (2013) The World Bank Group. "Investing in Human Capital: The Key to Transforming the Asia Pacific Region". (2013). Asia Pacific World; and Transforming the ASEAN Economic Community (AEC) into a Global Services Hub: Enhancing Competitiveness of the Health and Wellness and Creative Services Sectors, An Integrative Report. (2012) Economic Research Institute for ASEAN and East Asia (ERIA).

He recently completed a research report with ERIA on Education and Human Capital Development to Strengthen R&D Capacity in ASEAN (2013), and he is currently preparing a research report for PIDS on Establishing Linkages of Human Resource Development with Inclusive Growth.