A LECTURE ON GENERAL HUMAN EVOLUTION

"The question of what makes us different from other animals has been raised since the dawn of civilizations. Philosophers, scientists, and even artists tried to answer this in various forms. In this lecture, we will recount the processes of what made us who we are today - from our primate roots, to the first hominids. We will also look into our earlier relatives who once shared this planet with us".

September 21, 2016 (Wed)

2:30 - 5:30 PM

Animo Labs, 12th Floor, Henry Sy Sr. Hall

The speaker, Ms. Kat Manalo, holds a Master's Degree in Archeology from the University of the Philippines Archeological Studies Program, She is also a Master's Degree holder of Quaternary and Prehistory from Universitat Rovira I Virgili, Tarragona, Spain.

There is also an exhibit by the COZOS' Inc-Traveling Museum entitled, "First Humans Out of Africa: The Journey of Mankind" at the 12th floor, Henry Sy Sr. Hall. The exhibit features replicas of the human skulls and other artifacts found in Dmanisi, Georgia believed to be 1.8 million years old.

FREE ADMISSION to the exhibit which is open until October 14, 2016. A sandbox activity of a simulated archaeological digging will be held on October 05, 2016 at the Henry Sy Sr. Hall lobby.
