Course Code: ACT626M

Course Title: Accounting Information Technology

Course Description:

The course (ACT626M- Accounting Information Technology) is a combined knowledge about business, the profession, information, information technology, information systems, and accounting to create a framework for the Accounting Information System. The objective of the course is to instill a philosophy in the information age accounting professionals of today and tomorrow. Understanding organizations (their activities, processes, and the information needs of organization stakeholders) is the focus of this course. Information technology is presented as enabler of organization activities and objectives

Department: Accountancy

References:
Prescribed textbook:
- Hall, J. A. (2013). Introduction to Accounting Information Systems. 8th Edition, Cengage Learning

Other references:
- Stair, R. & Reynolds G. (2012). Information Systems Essentials. 6th Edition, Cengage Learning.
- Romney, M. & Steinbart, P.J. (2012). Accounting Information Systems. 12th Edition, Pearson Prentice Hall.
- Tang, A. (2015). Accounting Information Systems for mSME Survivability. DLSU Business Notes and Briefings 3(3),1-4.

ONLINE RESOURCES:
- How internet works: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hymzoUpM0K0