

The Contributors

Stephanie L. Chan is a lecturer in the Economics Department of the College of Business and Economics of De La Salle University, Manila, Philippines. She earned her Master of Applied Economics degree from DLSU.

Andrew Adrian Y. Pua has a master's degree in mathematics from De La Salle University, Manila, Philippines. He has written papers on macroeconometrics, labor economics and experimental economics.

Gerley Q. Po is an instructor in the Business Management Department of the College of Business and Economics of De La Salle University, Manila, Philippines. She earned her Master of Business Administration degree from DLSU. She specializes in entrepreneurship and investment.

Divina M. Edralin is a full professor in the Business Management Department of the College of Business and Economics of De La Salle University, Manila, Philippines. She earned her Doctor of Management degree from DLSU. She specializes in labor relations and human resource management.

Rosemary R. Seva is an associate professor at the Industrial Engineering Department of De La Salle University, Manila, Philippines.

Henry Been Lirn Duh is an assistant professor at the Division of System and Engineering Management at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore.

Martin Gustav Helander is a professor at the School of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore.

Gabriel K. Afolabi and Solomon A. Adebola are senior Lecturers at the Department of Business Administration and Marketing of Babcock University, Nigeria. Dr. Adebola is also the head of the department.

Arturo Pacho is a former researcher and faculty member of the National College of Public Administration and Governance, University of the Philippines. He completed his graduate studies from the University of the Philippines, Rutgers University, and Kent State University. He is based in Glendale, California.