

The Contributors

Viknesh Andiappan serves as an Associate Professor at the Swinburne University of Technology Sarawak Campus. His research develops decision-making tools for energy systems and supply chains as well as net-zero emissions. Dr Andiappan is well-published and well-cited for a young researcher (over 70 publications with an h-index of 14). He was also shortlisted as a finalist for the IChemE Young Researcher Malaysia Award (2018 and 2019) and the Heriot-Watt University PRIME Award (2021). He was awarded the IBAE Young Researcher of the Year Award for his contributions in research. Most recently, Dr Andiappan is an editorial board member for internationally peer-reviewed journals. He led a COVID-19 research grant, which worked on developing an economic analysis model to formulate post-pandemic recovery strategies for the agro-industry in both Malaysia and the Philippines.

Amornrat Apinunmahakul completed her PhD in Economics from the University of Ottawa, Canada in 2001. Amornrat worked at the University of Windsor in Canada during 2002 to 2007. She then joined the School of Development Economics of the National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA), Thailand in 2007 until now. Her research interests are public policy on social welfare, sustainable development in the context of aged society, private philanthropy, impact of social capital on development, and, any applied microeconomic issues.

Zandro M. Catacutan is currently working as a lecturer at Cavite State University-Don Severino de las Alas Campus. He obtained both his Doctor of Philosophy in Business Administration and his Master in Business Administration from De La Salle University-Dasmariñas. His research interests focus on areas such as financial market integration, agribusiness and entrepreneurship, business administration and economics, and strategic management.

Lawrence B. Dacuycuy is a full professor in economics at DLSU school of economics, Philippines. He holds a Ph.D. in Economics from Kyoto University. His current work is focused on models for business fluctuations and cycles, forecasting, and simulation.

Ashima Garg is an Associate professor at CORE University, Roorkee, India. Her specialization is HR and Human Behavioural. Her current areas of research interest are Organizational Effectiveness, Organizational Change, Organization Citizenship Behaviour.

Anne Marie Go is an Associate Professor with the School of Economics at De La Salle University. She received a bachelor of science degree in Statistics major in Actuarial Science from De La Salle University, a master of science degree in Economics Finance and Management from the University of Bristol, and a doctorate in Economics from the University of Bath. Her current areas of interest include game theory, political economy, and finance.

Kris G. Lobo worked as the Research. Lead at Asian Institute of Management (AIM-RVR). She has extensive research in the areas of Family Resource Management, Family Business, Sociology and Gender. She obtained her MSc in Family Management from the University of the Philippines.

Ronald U. Mendoza is Regional Director for Southeast Asia at IDinsight, a policy research organization focused on international development policy and programs, with a menu of data-driven technical assistance and capacity building services, dedicated to informing and supporting high-impact development policy and programs with rigorous data analysis and evidence. Ron is a governance and institutional reforms specialist with over 25 years of experience in development policy and public administration reforms.

Prior to joining IDInsight, Ron served as Dean and Professor with the Ateneo de Manila University, School of Government. Between August 2020 and July 2022, he also served as Chief of Party of PARTICIPATE, a three year USAID project focused on supporting citizens' participation in governance and strengthening democratic and governance institutions. From 2011 to 2015, he was an Associate Professor of Economics at the Asian Institute of Management (AIM), and the Executive Director of the AIM Rizalino S. Navarro Policy Center for Competitiveness. His research background includes work with UNICEF, UNDP, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, the Economist Intelligence Unit (EIU), and several Manila-based non-governmental organizations. In early 2021, the United Nations Economic and Social Council (UN ECOSOC) approved Mendoza's appointment to serve with the 24-person UN Committee of the Experts on Public Administration (CEPA 2021-2025).

Leveric T. Ng is an independent management consultant with forty years of experience in board and non-board positions in the retail, airline and hospitality industry. He has also been teaching for the last fifteen years in undergraduate and graduate schools for on various business subjects. He is a reviewer of journal articles and his research interests are in the areas of leadership and corporate governance. He received his Doctor in Business Administration from the De La Salle University RVR College of Business. He is a Fellow of the Institute of Corporate Directors, and currently teaches at Ateneo Graduate School of Business and De La Salle University.

AMINE Nouredine is a research professor at the National School of Commerce and Management of Tangier, Marketing department, Abdelmalek Assaadi University, Morocco

Yosavee Niravichaiya is a PhD candidate at the School of Development Economics, National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA), where he is pursuing his studies in the field of private sector investment. He holds an MBA from the Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University and has several years of experience leading corporate venture capital unit in Thailand.

Willington O. Onuh is a Professor of Economics at De La Salle University Dasmarias-Cavite Philippines. He earned PhD in Development Studies (major in Economics) from De La Salle University- Manila. He was a visiting research fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE), Japan and visiting professor at the School of Economics and Business Administration, Moraga California. He has written and published on issues related to health, poverty and business outsourcing, among others.

Som Nath Paul is Associate Professor in the Department of Management, School of Management in Graphic Era Hill University Dehradun. He was awarded as best faculty guide in the Lucknow region for summer internship programme 2007 at INC Varanasi and also selected as best faculty in the North India region for Security Analysis and Portfolio Management at ICAI National College Varanasi. He has presented and participated in many National and International conferences/seminars and has published more than 19 research papers in National and International journals. His interest area of research is behavioural finance & stock market.

Suthawan Prukumpai is an assistant professor at Kasetsart Business School, Bangkok, Thailand. She holds a Ph.D. in Finance from National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA). Dr. Prukumpai's current work is focused on empirical asset pricing, linkage between financial market and real sector, and financial integration in Asia.

John Paolo R. Rivera is an economist with an extensive research portfolio in the areas of tourism development, poverty, remittances and migration, entrepreneurship, international trade, and development economics. This includes his attendance in a succession of both international and local academic conferences, and authorship of numerous scientific and technical publications. He obtained his Doctor of Philosophy in Economics from De La Salle University School of Economics. He is currently the OIC Executive Director of the Asian Institute of Management – Dr. Andrew L. Tan Center for Tourism.

Cesar C. Rufino is a Professorial Lecturer of the School of Economics at DLSU-Manila. He was a recipient of the 2014 Outstanding Scientific Paper Award by the National Academy of Science and Technology (NAST), a Top Paper Award in the 4th ICADASSIS 2014 by NIDA, and Best Paper Awards during the 2014 and 2019 DLSU Research Congress and a Certificate of Achievement in Macroeconometrics from the International Monetary Fund. He has been a member of the Econometric Society, East Asia Economic Association, Philippine Economic Society (Lifetime member), International Association of Survey Statisticians and the Western Economic Association International. His areas of expertise are in Econometric model building, Economic forecasting, Big Data Analytics and the Blockchain.

Mdarhri Alaoui Saâd is a research professor at the Faculty of Legal, Economic and Social Sciences of Tangier, Marketing department, Abdelmalek Assaadi University, Morocco.

Yuthana Sethapramote is an associate professor at School of Development Economics, National Institute of Development Administration, Bangkok, Thailand. He holds a Ph.D. degree in Economics from University of Warwick. Dr. Sethapramote's work is focused on applied econometrics and financial economics. He is particularly interested in macroeconomic forecasting, evaluation of economic policy, and economic integration in Asia.

Christine Alyssa P. Solis is a graduate student at the School of Economics, De La Salle University. She received her bachelor's degree (cum laude) in European Studies, major in International Relations from Ateneo de Manila University. Her research interests lie in the field of disaster recovery and resiliency, international political economy, and public economics.

Sorasart Sukcharoensin is a Professor of Business Administration and Dean at the Graduate School of Development Economics, National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA). He had received a professional trainer award from the Stock Exchange of Thailand and achieved the teaching excellence award from the National Institute of Development Administration. He has also engaged in many research projects as well as consulting services in the areas of economics and finance. His research interests include capital market development, corporate governance, financial literacy, investment analysis, and performance benchmarking.

Athakrit Thepmongkol is an assistant professor at the School of Development Economics of the National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA). Graduated his PhD in Economics from National University of Singapore, he has been doing researches in the field of macroeconomic theories, especially on the topics of rational bubbles and economic crises.

Rajesh Kumar Upadhyay is a faculty in the area of HR & OB. His research and teaching experience exceeds the span of a 14 years during which he has taught courses related to Human Resource Management and Organizational Behavior at both graduate and postgraduate level. He has done his Ph D in Management from Mahatma Gandhi Kashi Vidhyapith, Varanasi and also qualified UGC NET in Management. he has authored more than 26 research paper for reputed national and international journals. His current areas of research interest are Organizational Effectiveness, Organizational Change, Team Effectiveness, Organization Citizenship Behaviour.

Ilker Yilmaz works at Dhofar University as an Assistant Professor of Accounting. He holds a Ph.D. in Accounting & Finance from Marmara University, Turkey. He is an ACCA member. His research interests include Working Capital Management, Corporate Social Responsibility, and Corporate Governance.

Krista Danielle S. Yu is a full professor in the School of Economics of De La Salle University. Dr. Yu's research activities centers on the development of quantitative models for disaster risk and vulnerability analyses, as well as on the economic impact of natural disasters. She also works on the application of input-output modelling techniques on sustainability issues. She has received multiple awards in recognition of her work from the Philippine National Academy of Science and Technology and Thomson Reuters.

Mengyu Zhan is a Ph.D. candidate in the School of Development Economics of National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA). She is an Assistant professor in School of Business of Chengdu University, China. With almost 8 years of teaching experience in Chengdu university, she presided over two provincial government fund projects and participated in two national social science funds. She published and presented a few papers at international conferences. Four of her Chinese papers were embodied by CSSCI and Chinese core journals.

Aris Zoleta is a Ph.D. student at the DLSU Graduate School of Economics. His research interest is in monetary policy, fiscal policy, financial markets, and asset pricing. While finishing his doctorate, he is currently working as Junior Associate at XBS Solution. Before joining XBS, he works as a fund accountant for 3 years at JP Morgan's Corporate and Investment Banking in Manila and for 8 years as an Officer at State Street APAC securities lending business. He is also a seasoned lecturer from different universities.