

The Contributors

Martha Joy J. Abing is an Associate Professor in the Department of Economics at Mindanao State University–Iligan Institute of Technology (MSU-IIT). She earned her PhD in Economics from De La Salle University (DLSU), Manila. Currently, she serves as the Chairperson of the Department of Economics under the College of Economics, Business, and Accountancy. Her research interests include impact evaluation, economic development, environmental economics, education, and health.

Ojih U. Abraham is a Navy officer assigned to the Department of logistics and supply chain management as a lecturer with Nigerian Defence Academy, Kaduna. Kaduna State, Nigeria.

Ray Anthony L. Almonares is a Ph.D. candidate in Business Administration, majoring in Finance, at Thammasat University in Bangkok, Thailand. His dissertation, “Essays on Climate Change and Transportation Finance,” examines the financial impact of climate change on the global transportation sector. He is currently a Principal Consultant at Creagy, a consultancy firm based in Thailand that focuses on climate solutions and sustainability.

Christopher James Cabuay is an early-career economist and researcher. He is currently Associate Professor at the De La Salle University (DLSU) Carlos L. Tiu School of Economics (SOE), a Senior Research Fellow at the Angelo King Institute for Economic and Business Studies, and an Associate Editor of SOE’s journal, the DLSU Business and Economics Review. He completed his PhD in Economics at the Crawford School of Public Policy of the Australian National University, and his Master of Science in Economics at DLSU-SOE. He currently teaches Econometrics, Economic Development, and Methods of Research at DLSU-SOE. He also worked as a consultant, providing expertise on impact evaluation, at the Asian Development Bank, as well as other multinational companies. His research interest revolves primarily around economic development, with a particular focus on international migration and remittances, labor, education, gender equality, public health, applied microeconometrics, and impact evaluation.

Mitzie Irene P. Conchada is Professor at the Carlos L. Tiu School of Economics (CLT-SOE) of De La Salle University, Manila. She obtained her Ph.D. in Economics from the Ateneo de Manila University, masteral degree (Master of Science in Economics) and undergraduate degree (Bachelor of Arts major in Economics and Bachelor of Secondary Education major in History) from De La Salle University, Manila. She served as associate dean of CLT-SOE and vice chair of the Department of Economics. She was also Research Fellow of the Partnership for Economic Policy and Economic Analyst of the Asian Development Bank. In 2018, she was DOST-NAST recipient of the Outstanding Scientific Paper Award for her paper entitled “Making social health insurance and micro-savings programs work for the informal sector in the Philippines.” Her research interests include economics of poverty, impact evaluation, experimental economics, education, economic integration, and economic development.

Caesar B Cororaton is a Senior Research Fellow, Angelo King Institute, DLSU. His research focuses on global trade, agriculture and poverty.

Michael Angelo A. Cortez, DBA, is a Full Professor of Accounting and Finance at the School of Management, Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University, located in Beppu, Oita, Japan. His research interests include: sustainability and ESG, innovation, research and development, mergers and acquisitions, corporate financial performance, and capital structures.

Dennis E. Cruz is an Associate Professor in the Department of Industrial and Systems Engineering at De La Salle University (DLSU). He previously served as Associate Dean of the Gokongwei College of Engineering at DLSU and currently holds the role of Project Director for the DOST-SEI Undergraduate Scholarships Program at the university. Dr. Cruz earned his Doctor of Philosophy in Industrial Engineering from De La Salle University in December 2023. He also completed both his Master of Science in Industrial Engineering and Bachelor of Science in Industrial Engineering with a Minor in Chemical Engineering at the same institution. His research interests encompass Supply Chain Management, Circular Economy, Water Footprint, Sustainability, Facilities Planning, Mathematical Modeling, and Optimization.

Pooja Jain is an expert in the field of Generative Artificial Intelligence (Gen AI). She works at Google as a subject matter specialist in prompt engineering, prompt designing, foundational working of Large Language Models (LLM) and several other related areas. She completed her master's from the prestigious University of California, Berkeley. She is an invited speaker on AI at various international forums, conferences and sessions.

Pranjal Jain is an avid researcher and a scholar in marketing and management domain. He has been known for his sharp acumen and intellect. He holds Ph.D., M.B.A., CA, CS, B.Com (Hons.) as his qualifications. He has completed Chartered Accountant (CA) from Institute of Chartered Accountants of India, Company Secretary (CS) from Institute of Chartered Secretaries of India and pursued specialization in Organizational Analysis from Stanford Graduate School of Education, Stanford University.

Anju Jain has been working with University of Delhi for more than 35 years. Her expertise revolves around Marketing, Management and Commerce disciplines. She holds Ph.D., LL.M., LL.B., M.Com. B.Com (Hons.) as her qualifications. She has published a number of research papers and academic books. She is associated with international journals as editor-in-chief and as invited editor.

Ikubor O. Jude with Ph. D Economics, is an academic lecturer with the Department of Economics, Nigerian Defence Academy (NDA), Kaduna, Kaduna State, Nigeria. With vast experience in lecturing, his area of interest are Financial Development and Development Economics with several publications in these areas of specialty.

Yahaya U. Isah with M.Sc Economics is a lecturer at the Department of Economics, University of Abuja, Abuja, Nigeria. His areas of research interest are international economics and Development Economics.

Mazeli O. Mark is an Air force officer attached with Air Force Wing as Chief Instructor of Nigerian Defence Academy, Kaduna, Kaduna –State. Nigeria.

Abdul Y. Mary is a Ph.D holder in Economics, with specialization in Development Economics. She is a lecturer with Kogi State Polytechnic, Lokoja, Kogi State. Nigeria, with several publications in this area of specialty.

Bernard Ojonugwa Anthony is an associate professor of Economics at the Department of Economics, Air Force Institute of Technology (AFIT), Kaduna, Kaduna State, Nigeria.

Ayodeji Salihu with PhD Economics is an academic lecturer with the Department of Economics, Nigerian Defence Academy (NDA) Kaduna, Kaduna State Nigeria.

Zakaree S. Saheed is a professor of Economics at the Department of Economics, Nigerian Defence Academy (NDA), Kaduna, Kaduna State, Nigeria, with vast experience and research in Development Economics.

Rosemary Seva is a Professor of Industrial and Systems Engineering at the Gokongwei College of Engineering, De La Salle University (DLSU), Philippines, where she also serves as Assistant Dean for Quality Assurance. A University Fellow, she previously held the position of Dean of the Gokongwei College of Engineering. Dr. Seva earned her Ph.D. from Nanyang Technological University (Singapore) and her master's degree from the University of New South Wales (Australia). She is also a Certified Professional Ergonomist (USA) and a Professional Industrial Engineer.

Lourdes Marie Tejero is currently the Director of the Technology Transfer and Business Development Office at the University of the Philippines Manila (UPM-TTBDO). She is presently a Professor and past Dean of the UPM College of Nursing and concurrently the Head of the World Health Organization Collaborating Center for Leadership in Nursing Development. Prior to that, she was Director of the National Graduate Office of the Health Sciences. She is a Certified Global Nurse Consultant conferred by the International Council of Nurses and CGNFS. Prof. Dr. Tejero graduated from University of California (UC) Berkeley and UC San Francisco with Master of Translational Medicine (MTM). She completed her BS Nursing and PhD from the University of the Philippines. She did her post doctorate at the University of Technology Sydney, Australia.